Great.

Take a look at it Laura and see if there are answers to some of those specific questions and I think we can use that directly with the press. We can make sure they understand that it is as current information as we have at this point and that it is updated daily.

This is what I sent to Bruce to try to appease him. It is public but we don't typically send folks to it. At one point during the weekend we were referring reporters to it when we got the okay to do that. Then we created the webpage which has the preferable epa.gov address.

Parts of it are public and parts are not from what I understand.

Check and see if you can get in with out signing on.

Can we send this link to the media/public or is this an internal site?

Here is the latest situation report found on the epaossc.org/goldkingmine website. I'm checking on timing but it looks like they posted it today and it's for the 11th but could have most recent, already vetted details like sampling info...

Importance: High

Can folks hop on the phone at 12:15ET/10:15 MT to talk through how we can streamline the process for getting back to reporters? We can circle back afterwards with folks in the JIC with the process.
